From: GOVERNING Daily
To: Carlton, M.Catherine
Subject: Should Lawyers Police Themselves? In Most States, They Do.
Date: Friday, March 31, 2017 6:37:24 AM

View Newsletter in Browser

Today's Government News

Subscribe to Governing Magazine & Newsletters
Follow us on Facebook / Twitter / LinkedIn

FEATURED STORY FOR MARCH 31, 2017

Should Lawyers Police Themselves? In Most States, They Do.

But the days of having lawyers regulate their own conduct are numbered in California. The question now is whether that will prompt others to end the controversial practice.

ADVERTISEMENT

Sponsor: IBM

LATEST GOVERNING NEWS & COMMENTARY

FINANCE

The Week in Public Finance: Bad Balancing Acts, Best Taxpayer ROI and Double Taxation

A roundup of money (and other) news governments can use.

VOICES OF THE GOVERNING INSTITUTE

The False Promise of Voter ID

More states are moving to require photo identification at the polls. But it's a solution for a problem that doesn't exist.

LATEST WEB HEADLINES

HEALTH & HUMAN SERVICES

- Pence Casts Tie-Breaking Vote to Let States Defund Abortion Providers
- Arkansas Governor Signs Nation's Strictest Ban on Gender-Based Abortions
- Medicaid Expansion Dies in Kansas, But Legislature Could Bring It Back to Life

INFRASTRUCTURE & ENVIRONMENT

- Bridge Fire and Collapse Prompts State of Emergency in Atlanta

POLITICS

- Racing Against the NCAA's Clock, North Carolina Passes New Transgender Bathroom Law
- How States Could Force Trump to Release His Tax Returns
- Kentucky Lawmakers Easily Override All of Governor's Vetoes
- Texas AG's Fraud Trial Delayed, Moved to New County

PUBLIC SAFETY & JUSTICE

- Controversial Execution Method Upheld by Tennessee Supreme Court

NEWS IN NUMBERS

12.7%

Rate by which President Trump's budget would cut funding for the Department of Transportation, which has many worried that he might break his promise to spend $1 trillion on infrastructure.

MORE

WHO SAID THAT?

"We're pro-life for the whole life."

MORE

Unsubscribe | Opt out of all e.Republic email | Privacy Statement
© 2017 e.Republic. All rights reserved. 100 Blue Ravine Road, Folsom, CA 95630. Phone: 916-932-1300